INTRODUCTION

At this time of loss the Cathedral community would like to offer our condolences and assure you of our prayers.

Preparing the funeral service of someone who has died can be a difficult thing to face. This booklet has been prepared to make things easier. May the time you spend reflecting on the Word of God strengthen your trust and faith in God's love and mercy.

This booklet summarises much of what the Cathedral Chaplain will explain to you when he meets with you, and will be a useful reference point for you when considering what form the funeral should take. The priest will have a lot of experience of preparing and celebrating the Funeral Liturgy of the Church. He will welcome your suggestions and consider how he can then best prepare the Liturgy in line with the Church's tradition, appropriate to the one who has died and respectful to those who gather to pray for them. We hope you find what follows helpful at this difficult time.

PREPARING A FUNERAL

The purpose of the Funeral Liturgy is to offer worship and thanksgiving to God, the author of life; to pray for the deceased, and to offer support to the bereaved.

The Church encourages us to celebrate a funeral in three main stages:

The Vigil of Prayer: a short service, usually the evening before the funeral, followed by time for prayer with the deceased.

The Funeral Liturgy, which is usually a Requiem Mass for the deceased.

The Committal at the cemetery or crematorium.

The Chaplain you are in contact with will help you to consider what is best and practical for your particular circumstances.

THE FUNERAL SERVICE

The Order of Service for a Funeral Mass is typically set as follows:

Reception and Entrance of the Deceased
Introit or Opening Hymn
Collect (Opening Prayer)
First Reading from the Old (or New) Testament
Responsorial Psalm (or Psalm Hymn)
[Second Reading from the New Testament]
Alleluia (or another Gospel acclamation during Lent)
Gospel (read by the priest or deacon)
Sermon
Bidding Prayers
Liturgy of the Eucharist
(with option of motet or hymn during offertory)
The Lord's Prayer
Holy Communion
(with option of motet or hymn)
Eulogy
Final Commendation
Procession to Place of Committal
(with option of hymn, organ voluntary or 'In paradisum')

Two or three hymns can, if you wish, be sung at different points of the rite, as explained above. Music, played on the organ or sung, may also be used to good effect throughout the service at appropriate moments. In the Requiem Mass, parts of the Mass such as the Introit, Sanctus and Agnus Dei may also be sung. Particularly if some attending the funeral are not familiar with Catholic worship, it is important to make sure that everything the congregation is expected to say or sing is printed in the Order of Service. Though the Cathedral is not usually able to arrange the typesetting and printing of Orders of Service, the Chaplain who is assisting you will be able to offer advice on these matters.

The Chaplain with whom you are in contact at the Cathedral will be pleased to explain anything else that is not clear and to give further advice that you may need.

SCRIPTURE READINGS

The Word of God is a source of encouragement and consolation for the faithful of God. It is Jesus who speaks when the scriptures are read in Church. Even when we read these readings to ourselves privately we are invited to listen for the voice of the Lord.

The readings that follow, which contain a brief description of their content, are those which are approved for use at Catholic funeral services. They can also serve as a source of spiritual reading in the days and weeks that follow the funeral service.

At every Catholic Funeral Mass there are usually at least two readings from Scripture. This includes one Gospel reading and one reading from the Old or New Testament. It is also permissible to have a second reading from the selection of readings.

The Gospel reading is read by the priest or deacon. The other Scripture reading (s) may be read by family members or friends. Please be sure to choose a reader who is able to read clearly and audibly, so that those present will be able to hear the reading you have chosen. If you feel that family members or friends will not be able to read, then please let the priest know and he will happily arrange for one of the regular parish readers to read the chosen text at the funeral.

EULOGY

Eulogies are permitted at a funeral of a loved one, but are not an essential part of the service. If you are going to have a Eulogy please discuss this further with the officiating priest. A few basic points to reflect on:

- The Eulogy should be read by one person, who you know will be able to read it clearly and audibly. If they are nervous, then a second person is able to come and stand by their side to support them.
- The Eulogy should be no longer than 5 minutes.
- The content of the Eulogy must be appropriate to the sacredness of the Service and the building in which it is being read.

The Order of Service must be approved by the Precentor of the Cathedral: this includes the choice of readings and music. Please ensure that the person designing the Order of Service sends a draft Order of Service to the Precentor (andrewgallagher@rcdow.org.uk) to proof-read before it is printed.

When the Mass or service requires the presence of a Cathedral Master of Ceremonies, a fee of £135 is charged. This is usually only necessary when a Bishop is presiding at the funeral or the funeral is particularly large.

There is one thing I ask of the Lord,
for this I long,
to live in the house of the Lord,
all the days of my life,
to savour the sweetness of the Lord,
to behold his temple.
